This means that whatever your final score is (gross score), it is then subtracted from the total score to give you the net score. For example, if you have a gross score of 100 and a handicap of 10, your net score would be 90. This is how handicaps work in golf. They are used to level the playing field between players of different skill levels. The higher your handicap, the more strokes you are allowed to add to your score. This makes the game more challenging and fun for everyone.

Spider Solitaire can indeed be a challenging game, but there are strategies that can increase your chances of winning. Here are a few tips to improve your game:

- Build in descending order: When possible, try to build in descending order, from King to Ace, to create sequences that can be moved together.
- Use the extra stock cards: In Spider Solitaire, you have two extra stock cards. Use these to your advantage by building sequences that include them.
- Clear aces and 2s: Clear aces and 2s from the foundation piles right away to free up space. Free up face-down cards from the largest stacks first to have access to them. Group like suits in the same stack so they're easier to play through.
